

Geological Society Publishing House Read and Publish Institutional Agreements for 2019

Our Read and Publish scheme allows corresponding authors at eligible institutions to publish gold open access in our hybrid journals at an agreed discounted price.

The Society actively encourages open access in scholarly communication. Our Read and Publish license agreements increase your institution's research exposure and allows authors to publish more content in an open access format, leading to wider dissemination and increased potential for downloads and citations.

The following institutions have Read and Publish agreements with us:
